DEATH CLAIMS CIVIL WAR HERO

Charles William Sheads Entered Union Army at Age of Seventeen.

WAS IN 28 ENGAGEMENTS

Severely Wounded in Battle of Monacy. Military Honors at Funeral Tuesday Afternoon.

Uraemic poisoning caused the death Saturday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock of Charles William Sheads, veteran of the Civil War and life long resident of Gettysburg, at his home on East Middle street. Mr. Sheads had been ill for five months but his condition became serious only a week ago. He was 77 years of age.

Mr. Sheads was born in Gettysburg and received his early education in the schools of the town. Although only seventeen years of age when Abraham Lincoln called for volunteers in 1861, he enlisted and served in the Union army with distinction until the close of the war. Upon his return to Gettysburg in 1865 he learned the trade of brick laying and stone masonry and followed that trade most of his life.

On September 2, 1861, Charles W. Sheads joined Company F, 87th Pennsylvania Volunteers and served nearly three years with that unit. He was mustered out of the service and immediately re-enlisted as a private in Company A, 16th Regiment Veterans Reserve Corps, February 3, 1864. He served with this corps until July 13, 1865 when he was honorably discharged. He was then only twenty years of age.

He was severely wounded in the battle of Monacy, July 9, 1864, when he received a gun shot wound in the face. While in the midst of the fray, a bullet struck the rifle barrel of Mr. Sheads' weapon and glanced downward, striking the young soldier in the face. He carried the scar of this battle to his grave.

Mr. Sheads served in twenty eight engagements, chief among which were The Wilderness, Petersburg, Spottsylvania, Weldon Railroad and Winchester.

A member of the Union Veterans Legion and the Corporal Skelly post of the Grand Army of the Republic, Mr. Sheads was active in the work of these organizations.

Besides his wife, he is survived by these sons and daughters:

Miss Ida Sheads, C. William Sheads, Samuel Sheads and Mrs. Grace Shearer, all of Gettysburg; Mrs. Rose Hamers, Miss Emma and Miss Nettie, at home. Seven grandchildren also survive and a sister, Mrs. Rosana Wavel, Gettysburg.

Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock conducted by the Chaplain of the Corporal Skelly Post.

CHILD TAKES FLIGHT

Jack Cessna First Gettysburg Baby Up In Airplane.

Three-year-old Jack Cessna had the distinction of being the first baby in Gettysburg to take an airplane flight. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cessna and son, Jack, and Mrs. H. A. Crouse, of Gettysburg, and Mrs. Joseph Sheely, of Baltimore, motored to Frederick, Maryland, where they were guests of Aviator E. W. Cleveland and family, of Houston, Texas. While there Mr. and Mrs. Cessna and son took several flights in Mr. Cleveland's plane.

Mr. Cleveland until recently was a flying instructor at the school of aviation at Houston.

X-RAY SHOWS NO FRACTURE

W. E. Buohl, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Buohl, was admitted to the Warner Hospital, Sunday, for an X-ray examination to his right leg which was supposed to have been fractured in the High School football game Saturday afternoon. The X-ray showed, however, it was merely a bad sprain.

LOCAL TEACHER WEDS IN HANOVER

Guy Wolf Marries Elsie Basehoar, of Hanover, a Former Teacher.

Guy Wolf, teacher of commercial branches in the Gettysburg High school and former cashier of the Abbotstown State bank, was married to Miss Elsie Basehoar, a former teacher in the Hanover High school, at the parsonage of St. Mathew's Lutheran church, Frederick street, Hanover, last Thursday evening by Rev. Ralph H. Bergstresser, it has just been learned here. The ring ceremony was used.

Mr. Wolf has been a teacher in the local high school for the past three years, prior to which time he taught for a number of years in the grade schools of Gettysburg. Last summer he accepted the position of cashier in the Abbotstown State bank, which opened but resigned to teach in the High school at the beginning of the present term.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf will make their home in Gettysburg.

FALL FROM WAGON PROVES FATAL

John Gross Dies in Warner Hospital From Injuries.

John Gross, who was admitted to the Warner Hospital Friday afternoon, after having been thrown from a load of baled straw between Heidersburg and York Springs and found to be suffering from a fractured skull and injuries to his spine died there Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock.

He had been riding on the rear of a load of baled straw which C. E. Bosserman, of Heidersburg, was taking to York Springs when on a down grade near Two Bridges, the brakes having failed to hold, the motion of the wagon jarred a number of the bales off the wagon among them one on which Mr. Gross was sitting. The fall, which was not more than seven feet, was severe enough to fracture Mr. Gross's skull and cause injuries to his spine which led to his death.

He was thirty three years old and was the son of Peter and Elizabeth Gross, deceased.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Gilbert Rupp, Tyrone township, near Heidersburg and Minnie Gross who lives in Heidersburg and one brother, Charles Gross, also of Heidersburg and one step-brother, Harry Day, Aspers.

The body was removed to the home of Mrs. Gilbert Rupp by W. O. Routsong, Bendersville, from which funeral services are to be held Wednesday morning meeting at the house at 9 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Kauffman, pastor of the Heidersburg United Brethren church officiating. Interment in Ground Oak cemetery.

TRIANGLE TOUR PLEASURE RIDE

Ninety Hotelmen Visit Gettysburg. Enthusiastic About Scenic Beauty.

DINNER AT EAGLE HOTEL

Triangle Acclaimed as One of Best One Day Drives in The East. Gettysburg is Big Attraction.

That the Triangle Tour, with Gettysburg, Harrisburg and Chambersburg at the apex of the angles, holds for the motorist the most picturesque scenery, the best roads and greatest general interest of any tour in the east was the unanimous opinion of ninety members of the Pennsylvania Hotelmen's Association, who Saturday afternoon drove to Gettysburg via of Chambersburg from Harrisburg. Luncheon was served at the Eagle Hotel and the party toured the battlefield after which they returned to Harrisburg.

"Beyond any doubt," said George D. Worthington of the Penn Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, president of the hotelmen's association, "the Triangle Tour is the most delightful journey a motorist can take and it is destined to become an attraction that will draw automobilists from all parts of the east. There is no section in the state, or anywhere for that matter, I know of that can compete for honors with the scenic beauty we have just beheld along the Lincoln Highway in the vicinity of Cashtown. I defy anyone to name more beautiful and picturesque views than those that may be seen from the road at a number of different places."

So enthralled were the hotel men, many of whom have travelled extensively, with the natural beauty of the mountains now colorful with bright and vari-tinted leaves and the fertile

OUT FOR ASSOCIATE JUDGE

S. G. Bigham Seeks Office. Four Candidates Now.

With the announcement today by S. G. Bigham, of his candidacy for associate judge, the only contest of special interest in the general election, November 8, to Adams county voters, has become more interesting, party leaders believe. Mr. Bigham was defeated by a narrow margin in the primaries for the Republican nomination. Until the announcement of his candidacy there were three nominees in the field for the two offices to be filled. Mr. Bigham's name does not appear on the ballot and his supporters will be compelled to use stickers to register a vote for him.

Nominees, whose names will appear on the ticket are H. B. Pearson, York Springs; E. P. Miller, Gettysburg, and George L. Rice, McSherrystown. Mr. Miller having been nominated on both party tickets.

WAS DAY FOR MOTORISTS

Ideal Weather Brought Thousands Here Sunday.

Thirty members of the Palmyra Motor Club made Gettysburg their goal Sunday. They arrived here about 11 o'clock and spent the day on the field. Sunday was one of the largest days of the summer so far as the hotels were concerned, although most of the visitors were from nearby points, who came to try the new roads. Ideal weather combined with perfect roads has brought large numbers of nearby motorists who are for the first time seeing the battlefield. Detours on the Emmitsburg road are in force because of concrete work on two bridges.

THREE RALLIES WERE SUCCESSES

Large Audiences at Events in Arendtsville Lutheran Church.

Three big rallies held Sunday in the Trinity Lutheran Church at Arendtsville proved successful in every respect. A larger attendance was present at Sunday School and Christian Endeavor than ever before on a rally day, although it was not the largest attendance that we have had at Sunday School. In the Sunday School session Dr. Frank Kramer gave a short but impressive talk on the meaning of Rally Day as a day to renew our interest in Sunday School work. He spoke of the need of activity in all branches of the school. The music was appropriate to the service and showed renewed interest along this line. The male and female choruses were of high order.

The Christian Endeavor society in the evening had a record attendance. An interesting exercise was rendered entitled "We Rally to our Christian Endeavor." Special music consisted of a violin solo by Miss Dorothy Raffensperger and music by Misses Dorothy and Elizabeth Boyer. The topic, "What we know about God," was discussed at length by the leader. Several Bible verses were then given by members of the Junior Christian Endeavor.

The evening worship was likewise interesting and inspiring. The women's chorus was repeated again in the evening. Other music was rendered, including a solo, "Fear not Ye, O Israel," by Edwin Rice. Rev. H. E. Burkey delivered the sermon. He spoke of the habit people have fallen into of substituting the Sunday School for the Church. How they attend Sunday School and then go home without attending Church. He pointed out that too many people were letting social engagements and good times interfere with their Church going habit.

LEAVES FOR HUNTING TRIP

P. W. Stallsmith Goes To Maine and Canada For Game.

P. W. Stallsmith, Broadway left Sunday morning for York where he joined E. H. Eyster, and H. C. Thompson, of York, on a two-week's hunting trip which is expected to take the trio through Maine, Canada and Nova Scotia.

The men, who left York Sunday afternoon by motor, will go direct to Kingman, Maine, where as a sort of head of transportation, they will leave their machine and in company with guides strike into the wilds. They will hunt bear, deer and moose.

The party expects to make the 886 mile trip from York to Kingman as a kind of no-stop run, each man taking his turn at the wheel. Mr. Stallsmith was at the wheel when the trio left York and was scheduled for the night's run which will be by way of Delaware Water Gap.

GLOOM WAS HEAVY OVER COLLEGE

Gettysburg Fumbled Football Game to Muhlenberg Before Alumni Crowd.

MANY ALUMNI PRESENT

After Scoring Twice in First Period, Gettysburg is Helpless Before Onslaughts of Big Allentown Backs.

Alumni home-coming day at Gettysburg College Saturday was a complete success in every particular except on —Muhlenberg won the football game by a score of 17-13, which incidentally is the first defeat on the home field in nine years when Dickinson with Dunn and Goldstein battered their way to victory.

Ideal football weather brought the largest crowd that ever witnessed a football game to the college field. It was an Indian summer day with just enough tang to the air to keep the throng on edge. A slight breeze from the west aided defenders of that goal, but otherwise the odds were even and despite the fact that Gettysburg was outplayed after the first period the crowd did not give up until Gettysburg lost the ball in the closing minutes after staging a mighty but futile effort to score again.

The athletic field looked like a miniature bowl with the stands and hundreds of automobiles forming a complete circle about the gridiron. Alumni by the scores came to see the team that the University of Pennsylvania held to 7 points. They came confident and went away dejected, for to many the hopes of beating Bucknell were blasted by the showing Gettysburg made.

Muhlenberg had a cheering section.

FIND BLOODY CAP

More Evidence in Eastlake Murder Case.

(By Associated Press) Colonial Beach, Va., Oct. 24—A small box containing a bloodstained white cap, such as are issued to petty officers in the Navy was found yesterday by detectives who were searching the cottage here in which Mrs. Roger D. Eastlake was murdered several weeks ago. Her husband, formerly a naval chief petty officer and Miss Sarah E. Knox, a nurse are held on charges growing out of the murder.

The box was covered with children's toys when found. In addition to the cap, a "sou' wester" or rubber hood similar to those worn by navy men was in the box, they declared.

Authorities here on numerous occasions had opened the box, but believing it contained nothing but children's playthings paid no particular attention to the contents.

MURDER TRIAL STARTS IN YORK

Slippling Charged With Killing Two Men at Cly in 1919.

Arrested after a chase by State Police through six states, during which one officer gave up his life, Curtis Slipple is now in the York jail, and will be put on trial today on a charge of murdering two men, Gabriel Perachia and James J. Critchlow, railroad workers, at Cly, near York, during the summer of 1919.

Slipple was employed as a railroad section hand and worked with the two men he is alleged to have killed. The victims were assaulted with an iron bar and their skulls crushed. Slipple disappeared afterward. York police failed in their efforts to find him and eighteen months after the men were killed State Police began an investigation. Policeman Chauncey Snyder began the hunt and the trail took him through Pennsylvania, the District of Columbia, Ohio and West Virginia into Kentucky.

The man sought apparently had lost himself in the hills made famous by the Hatfield-McCoy feud, but Snyder went into the section and gradually cultivated the acquaintance of the natives. As the chase appeared to be nearing its end he was taken ill and died in a Cincinnati hospital. Trooper Leo Gratosky and Sergeant Tipton were assigned to the case and finally picked up the trail. Tipton then returned and Gratosky continued. On May 7 last Slipple was arrested and brought back to York.

REPORT SAYS CHARLES IS DEAD

Unverified Dispatch Reaches London. Hungarian Forces Driving Back Insurgents.

(By Associated Press) Budapest, Oct. 24—1.00 a. m.—Hungarian government forces fighting against the attempts of former Emperor Charles to regain the throne have won pronounced successes against the Carlist forces, it was announced in reports to the government early today. The report stated that the town of Raab had been recaptured and that the Carlists were being attacked in the rear.

Report Charles Killed

London, Oct. 24—An unverified report that former emperor Charles of Austria has been assassinated has been received by the Exchange Telegraph Company.

London, Oct. 24—A truce between the troops of the Hungarian government and those supporting former emperor Charles is being arranged to prevent further bloodshed, says a Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

The Horthy administration of Hungary, however, continued to resist the advance of Charles' forces and are declared to have captured 120 prisoners.

London, Oct. 24—An ultimatum has been sent to the Hungarian government by Czechoslovakia giving the former forty eight hours to secure the removal of former emperor Charles from that country, it is stated, in a dispatch from Vienna to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

BOARD HOPES TO AVERT STRIKE

Asks That Loose Talk Be Stopped in Formal Statement.

UNION LEADERS ARE FIRM

Declare Only Way to Prevent Strike is to Make Satisfactory Settlement With Employes.

(By Associated Press) Chicago, Oct. 24—The Railroad Labor Board announced today that it had "reason to hope" that the railroad strike set for October 30 would be averted.

In a formal announcement the board warned the public to "refrain from loose talk and provocative language about either side of the controversy."

Unions Give Warning

Chicago, Oct. 24—The four big brotherhoods and the switchmen's union have reiterated their warning to the United States Railroad Labor Board that "only a satisfactory settlement can prevent the railroad strike called for next Sunday morning," it was learned today.

The president of the five unions replying to the board's citation to appear here Wednesday sent a joint message asserting the stand they took at their conference with the board last week when they insisted they had no power to suspend or call off a strike unless a settlement in accordance with their demands was made.

Must Satisfy Workers

"The only power in our hands," the union executives telegraphed "is to advise our men that a satisfactory settlement has been reached."

If the strike is called, however, there were indications today that the strikers may find themselves without any directing leaders as the board has summoned the 1,400 general chairmen of the five unions to come to Chicago with their general officers, a prolonged conference would leave locals without leaders.

The strike call provided that general chairmen should supervise the strike and be responsible for its conduct in the territory within their jurisdiction reporting each night by wire the situation on their lines.

Union Chiefs Firm

While the board today issued a statement saying "there is great reason to hope that the strike will be averted" the strong stand of the union executives as set forth in their acceptance of the board's order to appear here Wednesday, indicates a long drawn out hearing.

Members of the board, according to all reports, are still unprepared to offer any different basis for a settlement than the proposal made to the union officers last week and rejected by the labor chiefs.

Will Not Strike

Chicago, Oct. 24—The brotherhood of railroad Signalmen of America will not join the brotherhoods and switchmen in their contemplated strike, President D. W. Helt announced today.

STOCK REPORT

Rails Strengthened On Report From Chicago.

(By Associated Press) New York, Oct. 24—On receipt of word from Chicago that the Railroad Labor Board was hopeful of averting a strike rails strengthened its early position on the stock market Active oils continued to fluctuate irregularly, however, and steels and equipments were under pressure, tobaccos and utilities also easing. The few exceptionally strong issues included Baldwin, Virginia iron, Endicott-Johnson and Cuba Cane preferred, these gaining 1 to 2 points. Call money opened at 5 per cent, the firmer rate probably resulting from last Saturday's deficit in clearing house reserves.

FOUR KILLED IN MOONSHINE RIOT

Sheriff And Police Sergeant
Slain in Fight With Negroes.

NINE WOUNDED IN BATTLE

Posse of Hundred Men Held at Bay by
Two Negroes Barricaded in Barn.
Both Are Killed.

Orange, Va., Oct. 24—Four men are dead, nine are wounded and the streets of the town were last night patrolled by special armed deputies, some of whom were sent from Richmond by Governor Davis, when two negroes barricaded themselves in a barn just outside the town limits, and, defying arrest, shot all who approached, holding out for more than three hours before they were finally either killed or burned to death in a fire which supposedly was started from the sparks of their own deadly guns. A serious race riot has been averted by the prompt action of local officials, but even now the authorities are not certain it will not break out again.

List Of Dead

The dead are:
W. C. Bond, sheriff of Orange county.
J. F. Boyer, sergeant of the town of Orange.
Walter Ware, colored.
Unidentified colored man.
The wounded are all white, some of them among the most prominent citizens of the section. Only one, Stanley Carter, a prominent farmer, is seriously wounded, the others suffering from painful gunshot wounds. The trouble started Saturday night when Sheriff Bond and Sergeant Boyer went to arrest Ware on a charge of distilling liquor.
The officers left Orange about 5 o'clock Saturday driven by a white chauffeur who was instructed to wait for them. At 9 o'clock, when they had not returned, he became alarmed and went into Orange, hoping that they had returned by foot. When they were not found he formed a posse, and went back in search of them. After hours of searching without success the party returned to Orange to await day and with the first light went back to the section in which the negro lived.
After a little hunt they came upon the dead bodies of both Bond and Boyer, who were probably instantly killed by a load of buckshot. Without knowing who had done the shooting the men returned to Orange and notified the authorities, who immediately swore in deputies and the search was renewed.

Negro Darts From Woods

After a short time the men saw a negro dart from a densely wooded patch of land and ran towards an open hay barn on the property of J. P. Taylor, a prominent Richmond tobaccoist. Quickly gathering around the barn the men demanded that the negro surrender. When no reply came they thought he had not concealed himself in the barn and advanced upon it. Two shots rang out, severely wounding Stanley Carter and slightly wounding A. N. Boyd, prominent citizens, who had been sworn in as deputies.
The posse then opened fire upon the barn and it was kept up for three hours, but because of the commanding position of the negroes all who approached within range of their guns were shot and it was impossible to rush in.

MURDER MYSTERY BAFFLES POLICE

Body of Young Woman Found in Long Island
Pond.

New York, Oct. 24—Detectives engaged in solving the mysterious death of the unidentified young woman, part of whose body was found Saturday in a pond near Queen's Boulevard, Long Island City, energetically followed several clues yesterday. There first success was in finding the manufacturer of the white cloth in which the portion of the body was wrapped, and through this it was hoped to trace the dealer who might have sold it to a possible slayer. A laundry mark was another clue by which the sleuths expected to identify the victim.
Search was continued throughout the day in the vicinity of the pond and of all other swamps in the neighborhood for the missing parts of the body, which had been cut in two above the hips. The police also were trying to find a man described as a railroad employee, who had been seen going in the direction of the pond carrying a bundle.
The records of young women reported missing for several months past have been carefully checked with the description of the dead woman, police headquarters reported, but the comparisons failed to aid the identification.

BASKET FULL OF FORGED PERMITS

Searching Now For Go-Between.
Slater And Benner Are Held.

Philadelphia, Oct. 24—A bushel basket full of forged withdrawal permits, all of them signed by A. F. Slater, former secretary to State Prohibition Director William C. McConnell, and Hiram W. Benner, in charge of the permits, were discovered Saturday by investigators working on the local prohibition scandal and turned over to Assistant United States District Attorney T. Henry Walnut.

The counterfeit papers were found in different files in the office of the State Director in the Vandam Building by agents working under Arthur Hearle. In an effort to cover up the crookedness the applications, all of them forged, had been filed incorrectly and it took the investigators all night and all day yesterday to ferret them out.

Some of them called for as much as 10,000 gallons and were issued in the names of permit holders who have never withdrawn more than 50 or 100 gallons at a time. Others of them were ostensibly signed by reputable manufacturers and druggists who have been conducting their business according to the law. These signatures are, of course, forgeries. A number of them are excellent work of penmanship, while others, under close scrutiny, are very crude, which leads the agents to believe that more than one of the defendants took a hand in the work.

Search for Chief Forger

Efforts are being made to determine just who the penman was on those that were cleverly forged. Mr. Hearle is inclined to believe that someone was retained especially to do this work. Slater, it is charged, would take permits for withdrawal of alcohol that had been issued to the permit holder and really signed by him to his rooms in a South Broad street hotel. There the names were copied from the legitimate permits to the faked ones.

Singer, besides being called a king bootlegger, is also said to have been the go-between for Slater and other bootleggers who desired to get withdrawal and whose business did not interfere with his own. The prices charged by Slater and Benner for these faked permits varied, it is said. When they first started out they charged from $5 to $10 a case and from $50 to $75 a barrel for the permits. Their latest price, just before they were thrown out last week, was quoted as $18 a case and from $100 to $115 a barrel.

NO TRACE OF THURMONT MAN

Disappearance of Bridegroom
October 6.

According to Mrs. C. C. Merritt, of Thurmont, nothing as yet has been heard from Doctor C. W. Davis, formerly of Sacramento, Cal., who after kissing his bride of a few days goodbye in Thurmont, on October 6, telling her he was going to Hagerstown to take part in a Red Cross play, "Lost in New York," disappeared.

Dr. Davis came to Frederick county from his home in Sacramento, Cal., on September 28, took out a license to marry Mrs. Ella M. Sineh, sister of Mrs. Merritt, and left at once for Thurmont. The ceremony was performed the same day at the Merritt home. It is said that the romance started about four months before the marriage, at a resort in South Carolina. The missing groom is said to own a large estate in Sacramento. He formerly lived in Warren county, New York.

He boarded the 10:30 train for Hagerstown on October 6 and has not been heard from since. Just where he started for, or why he left his Thurmont bride, is a mystery to all, and a thorough search is being maintained by the Hagerstown authorities, members of the Merritt household believing that he is still in that city.

Dr. Davis is a man 60 years old, tall and slender and weighs about 150 pounds. He has gray hair, blue eyes and a sandy mustache. When he disappeared he wore a black striped suit, derby hat, a diamond stick pin and ring and had several hundred dollars in his pocket. There was no Red Cross play to be staged at any Hagerstown theatre, but at one of the theatres Mrs. Merritt learned that a man answering the description of the missing physician had applied there for a job. He was told to see the manager, but the manager says he had no applicants.

STRIKE NOW UP TO LABOR BOARD

Union Leaders Say Responsibility
Is Entirely Up to That Body.

HELD MEETING SUNDAY

Score Freight Rate. Cut Authorized by Interstate Commerce Commission. Call it Sympathy Move.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 24—That railroad brotherhood transportation chiefs will hold the United States Railroad Labor Board and the carriers responsible for the nation-wide railroad strike scheduled to begin next Sunday morning, should the Board or other agencies be unable to avert it, and announcement that all the chairmen of the "Big Five" brotherhoods, numbering about 600 men, also have been cited to appear before the Board in Chicago Wednesday featured Sunday's strike developments here.

The attitude of the union chiefs was explained following a conference of four of the "Big Five" leaders yesterday in a statement by Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in which the chiefs reiterated their hope that a solution acceptable to the employees may yet be found.

Text Of Statement

It was indicated that the statement may be regarded as an outline of the stand the labor leaders will take when they appear with the executives of the railroads before the Labor Board.

The statement follows:

"With regard to the position of the employees of the railroads at this time, we can only say that their representatives are patiently awaiting for any developments that would appear to offer a solution of the situation that confronts us.

"We are not now, nor have we ever been, desirous of being party to precipitating a strike, but when it is quite apparent that the railroads propose not only to reduce wages but to take from those employees practically all the conditions of service that have been maintained for many years and the Railroad Labor Board is unable or fails to give us the assurance that the interests of the employees will be protected from such onslaughts by the interests that control the transportation lines of our country, nothing is left for the employees but to stand on their constitutional rights to reform the service of these carriers.

Refer To Rate Cut

"We are advised through the newspapers that the Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized a considerable reduction in freight rates.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the wages of the railroad employees have been reduced 12 per cent since July 1 there was no talk about a reduction of freight rates until this crisis arose. Now the railroads are attempting to gain the sympathy of the public in this crisis by this late reduction of rates.

"The public never would have received this reduction with the consent of the railroads had the railroads not been confronted with this emergency."

THOUGHT WOMAN A ROBBER

Motorists Shoot Four Times at Her.
All Went Wild.

Mistaken for a highwayman when she stepped into the path of an approaching automobile on the Funkstown pike-Saturday evening, Mrs. E. Benders, Keedysville, narrowly escaped being shot by four bullets which were fired at her by the occupants of the car.

Mrs. Benders, with her husband, was on the way to this city. While riding on the Funkstown pike their automobile broke down. Mrs. Benders in an effort to secure help stepped into the path of the machine lighting a flashlight as she did so. The driver of the car failing to heed her signal to stop drove faster and men in the rear of the car fired the shots.

Since so many shots have been reported on the various pikes, motorists have been afraid to stop when signalled and as a result automobilists, who are so unfortunate as to suffer a breakdown are unable to get assistance from passing cars.

WITNESS PRAYS IN COURT

Kentucky Blacksmith Seeks Divine
Guidance in Testifying.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 24—Called to the witness stand in a civil suit in Circuit Court, James Duncan, a blacksmith, knelt first and prayed as follows:

"Dear Lord, you know our hearts; you know what we are here for, Dear Lord, guide us in our speech. Amen."

But before this he had refused to be sworn, and Judge Bush affirmed him, instead, as the Kentucky law permits in case of those conscientiously opposed to making oath.

TROOPS COME TO AID OF CHARLES

Conflicting Reports Come From Hungary. New War Said to be Raging.

Vienna, Oct. 24—The exact situation in Hungary is now beyond the knowledge of the Austrian Foreign Office, which yesterday lost communication with Budapest. There have been all kinds of rumors, including one reporting the entry of Charles, the former King, into Budapest and the defection of some of the Government forces to Charles' banner as well as the repulse of the monarchist forces and other conflicting information. But it is known beyond a doubt that there has been brisk, and possibly sanguinary, fighting close to Budapest.

A telephone message from Prague said that Charles had succeeded in reaching Budapest, while the Vienna Freie Presse announces that the Italian Legation has received news from Budapest that some of the troops in that capital have declared in favor of Charles.

Early reports agreed that the Carlists had been checked at Budaors, which is about 17 miles from Budapest, one of the dispatches saying that the train that preceded Charles had reached that place, but was forced to back out hurriedly upon a show of resistance by the Government troops.

New War Is On

Troops from Oedenburg, Steinauer and Stahlweissenburg, it is declared, are hastening to reinforce the ex-King, and the fact that bloodshed has begun is believed by those who know the Hungarian character to foreshadow a final struggle between the reactionary and the republican forces that probably will extend beyond the borders.

farm and orchard lands in the valleys, that the entire party halted at the top of the Cashtown hill and spent a half hour marvelling at the splendor of the landscape.

"Of course, the greatest attraction of the triangle tour," Mr. Worthington added after describing vividly the Blue Ridge Mountains on an October day, "is the battlefield here. That will be the magnet that will bring motorists on this tour by the thousands next summer, and the scenic beauty and perfect roads will be delights thrown in for good measure."

The hotel men were enthusiastic as to the possibilities of Gettysburg becoming one of the great centers for tourist traffic in the east. They agreed that the speed with which this development takes place will depend entirely upon the amount of publicity the Triangle Tour and Gettysburg received. It was the general opinion that tourist traffic next summer would exceed that of any previous year and local hotel men are now planning a systematic method of advertising Gettysburg in a way that has never before been attempted.

Before adjourning their sessions in Harrisburg the hotel men agreed to the following:

That the hotels are not earning as much per room as they did in 1914.

That the "souvenir hunter" costs the hotels of the country hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in petty thefts.

That women make good hotel managers and are rapidly forging to the front in the business.

That if the hotels of the country carried their own insurance and paid their own losses they would all be able to rebuild their hostleries in 20 to 30 years from their savings.

That the Statler hotels have guaranteed their employees against wage cuts, providing they agreed to make savings wherever possible and give a full day's work for a full day's pay.

Among those on the trip were: George D. Worthington, manager of the Penn-Harris hotel, Harrisburg, and President of the State Hotelmen's Association; Col. Thomas G. Leslie, secretary of the Association; Col. Charles Duffy, manager of the Park Hotel, Williamsport and a vice president of the Association; Elmer Heimbeck, manager of the Allen Hotel, Allentown, another vice-president of the Association; Frank Hanna, manager of the Henry hotel, Pittsburgh, N. W. Newton, proprietor of Green's hotel, Philadelphia and A. C. Eckholm, secretary of the New Jersey Hotelmen's Association and Congressman Edgar Keiss, from Eaglesmere, was also in the party.

County Native Dead

Found in an unconscious condition in the rear of his residence, 225 Foster street, Harrisburg, George C. Smith, a native of Adams county, died Saturday morning shortly after he was carried into the house. Death was pronounced due to a stroke of apoplexy. He was eighty one years of age.

Mr. Smith was born in this county, June 20, 1832, and received his early education in the public schools. In 1869 he went to Harrisburg, where he learned the plastering trade. Later he became a contractor and engaged in this business for nearly fifty years. He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and for the last forty years had been a member of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church in Harrisburg.

One son and two daughters, all of Harrisburg, survive him.

Funeral Monday afternoon. Services conducted at the Anthony home at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Milton Whitener, pastor of the Reformed Church, officiating. Burial in Mount Carmel cemetery.

AVOID LATE RUSH FOR AUTO TAGS

Commissioner Sadler Issues Statement Regarding Licenses For Trucks and Cars.

The State Highway Department will not guarantee delivery of automobile tags before January 1, when the applicant does not send in his papers before Christmas, announced Highway Commissioner Lewis S. Sadler yesterday in urging proper application for tags. Last year, there was a tremendous rush late in December. The State will begin shipment of 1922 tags on November 1 and thousands have already been listed.

Commissioner Sadler said: "In registering commercial vehicles with chassis weighing 2,000 pounds or over, applicants should use only the new 1922 form of application. The Act of 1921, amending the motor laws of 1919, has materially changed the chassis weight series and fees for this class of vehicle. The new law specifies a separate fee for pneumatic tired vehicles and solid tired vehicles. If trucks were registered in 1921, correct chassis weight, manufacturer's and motor numbers, and make of lens can be secured by referring to the registration certificate issued by the Highway Department for the vehicle in question.

"Truck tractors used with semi-trailers (two wheeled trailers) are registered as one vehicle and application for registration is made on the same form as for trucks with chassis weighing 2,000 pounds and over. The weight of the truck chassis plus the weight of the semi-trailer (unloaded) is the weight on which the fee is computed.

"Trucks with chassis weighing under 2,000 pounds are registered at 40 cents per horsepower, with a minimum fee of $15, application to be made on the same form as for registration of passenger motor vehicles.

"Electrically operated trucks or commercial vehicles having chassis weight of 2,000 pounds or over are registered at the same fee as similar weight trucks with pneumatic tires."

AMERICAN NAVY SECOND

New Construction Programs Will Not Affect Standing.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Latest statistics of the naval establishments of the world's leading maritime powers, compiled by informed officials here, indicate the American navy still will be securely established in second place when the building programs now under way are completed.

According to the tabulation of fighting ships, Great Britain leads with 533 ships, with an aggregate tonnage of 1,860,480; the United States has 464 ships of 1,289,463 tons, and Japan 99 of 528,689 tons. France and Italy hold fourth and fifth positions with fighting tonnage totaling 462,000 and 275,000, respectively.

Completion of present programs will add 17 ships to the British navy, or 199,380 tons, 69 to the American with a total of 734,928 tons, and 85 to the Japanese, of 805,188 tons, exclusive of a special submarine program comprising 120 submarines.

Lacking definite information as to speed and gun power of some units included in latest authorized naval programs, experts here pointed out that a comparison of "battle efficiency" was difficult, if not practically impossible. Examples cited were the so-called "super-hoops" of Great Britain and the new Japanese battle cruisers which, according to best information, will carry 18-inch rifles of undetermined number.

FIND MORE WATER IN TIME

Almost Dry Borough To Pump From Stream On Nearby Farm

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 24.—Priceless when drought had almost extinguished the water supply from this region, Schuylkill Haven borough officials have discovered a stream of water on the farm of Dr. O'Hara, four miles from that town, which is yielding 125,000 gallons every 24 hours. The stream has been seized and will be of great avail in preventing another reduction in the water supply, which has been cut off at 4 o'clock every afternoon for months. Pumping water will begin at once.

The water situation here continues most grave. The Pottsville Water Company has called on the Silver Creek Water Company for aid and the water from the old Schuylkill Canal dams at Tumbling Run has been turned into the Pottsville mains to bolster up the rapidly-failing supply.

WAR HERO GAS VICTIM

Kentuckian Who Killed 24 Germans In Day Suffers Lung Affection.

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 24.—Sergeant Willie Sandlin, of Devil's Jump Branch, Leslie county, is suffering a serious lung affection as the result of gas inhaled while in the Argonne forest, he was told when he came here for examination by Government physicians.

Sergeant Sandlin, advancing in command of a platoon at Bois de Forger, France, September 26, 1918, kept on when discovery of a machine gun nest brought a command to halt. In one day he destroyed three machine gun nests, captured six machine guns and a hospital group, killing the German lieutenant with his own gun.

Sergeant Sandlin was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Croix de Guerre with Palm, the Médaille Militaire and citations from General Pershing and Marshal Foch.

MAY NEED FIELD KITCHENS

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24.—The old field kitchen of A. E. F. days may be brought into use in Kansas City to help feed the 150,000 men and women who are coming here to attend the national conventions of the American Legion and the Women's Auxiliary.

A special "mess" committee has been assigned the task of supervising the regular restaurants and establishing as many special food dispensing places as may be needed. This committee will investigate any complaint as to prices and service.

Ten-cent lunches will be served in the convention hall by a committee of women. Salvation Army lassies will serve doughnuts and coffee at a number of street stands, and if necessary, the old field kitchen will be dragged out and put into service.

SCOUTS AT GAME

The Fairfield Boy Scouts of Troop No. 1, accompanied by their scoutmaster, Rev. Ralph W. Baker, attended the Gettysburg-Muhlenberg football game, Saturday afternoon. They were also shown through the College and Seminary buildings. They were admitted to the game free of charge through the generosity of the Athletic Committee. The Hartzell Garage of Fairfield, furnished the truck which brought the boys here.

AUTOIST KILLS MAN NEAR YORK

Victim Said to Have Been In- toxicated. Driver Not Held.

Charles Myers, aged forty-six years, residing with his son Kurvin, near Koch's lane, along the Harrisburg, 'pike about a mile north of North York, was instantly killed shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday night when struck by a Buick automobile, driven by Charles Baker, of Emigsville.

Death was possibly caused by a fractured skull. Coroner Frank V. McConkey viewed the body and will conduct a further investigation.

According to Baker's story, the accident was unavoidable. He did not see the man on the highway. At a point near Lightner's schoolhouse the man staggered from the direction of the trolley tracks and Baker turned his car in an effort to avoid hitting Myers, but failed. The headlight on the right-side of the car evidently struck the man in the head, as the light is somewhat damaged. This probably caused the injury which resulted in the death of Myers. Baker claims that the car was running about twenty-five miles an hour, while another passenger in the car does not think that the car was even going at that rate of speed.

Myers, it is claimed, was on York street Sunday evening apparently under the influence of liquor, and boarded the trolley car leaving York at 9 o'clock to travel to his home. He got off the car at Koch's lane and the accident occurred a short time later.

Myers, about ten years ago, figured in another mishap. Having gone to sleep on a railroad track, he was run down and lost his left arm as a result.

When Baker saw that the man was beyond the aid of surgical assistance he went to a nearby residence and notified the York police department of the affair. The department in turn notified Coroner McConkey and that official went to the scene and ordered the removal of the body.

GET SAFE-BLOWERS IN ACT

Theatre Watchman And Burglar's Wife Held as "Lookouts" For Gang.

New York, Oct. 24.—Four men, breaking open a safe in the Clinton Theatre, one of the largest on the East Side, were arrested early Sunday after a pistol fight with police detectives. A special watchman employed by the theatre and the wife of one of the burglars also were taken into custody, charged with acting as lookouts for the gang. The arrests were made after detectives for several hours had followed a taxicab in which the burglars drove about town.

When the detectives entered the theatre the men at the safe switched off the lights and started firing, but exhausted their ammunition without injuring anyone, and then surrendered. The prisoners are Harry Rosofsky, watchman; Rocco Rizzo and his wife Marie, George Weinberg, driver of the taxicab; George Eberhardt and Morris Welinsky. There was about $2000 in the theatre safe.

SPECIAL C. E. MEETING

Session At Chestnut Grove Largely Attended.

The special Christian Endeavor Rally held in the Chestnut Grove Church, Sunday night was attended by one hundred and fifty persons. The purpose of the meeting was to renew interest in Christian Endeavor work. Mr. Naugle, of Gettysburg College, told what a Christian Endeavor should do, and E. B. Buller, ex-county Christian Endeavor president of Center county, told how they could do it. S. W. PROHIBITION COMMISSIONER HAYNES FACES TASK THAT ENTAILS TREMENDOUS PHYSICAL STRAIN

The Prohibition Commissioner endeavors to recuperate from the strain of making the country really dry by mental and physical relaxation. Here he is taking a prohibition luncheon under the trees in Potomac Park with Assistant Prohibition Director James E. Jones and two others of his staff. Commissioner Haynes is shown drinking a glass of his favorite beverage, milk. Assistant Commissioner Jones is reading at his right.

America is to be made liquor-proof under plans which Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes has initiated to make the Volstead dry law a real entity. Woe to the illicit trade in alcoholic beverages if the Prohibition Commissioner is able to maintain his health under the gruelling mental and physical strain entailed in the prosecution of his program of nation-wide bone dry law enforcement.

The Brussels Sprout Duel

By HAZEL SMITH.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.

I had served Monsieur le Marquis faithfully for fifteen years. That is not so short a time, as things go nowadays, for it seems that one changes his butler as often as his overcoat. But Monsieur would never let any of his servants depart. Besides, my father had served his father a lifetime.

We had had great trouble during the five years preceding Monsieur's death, for his daughter, became attached to a worthy young man whom Monsieur resolutely refused to allow within the chateau. He was a son of the Comte de Minquette, but he was a Dreyfusard! Enough! France has been rent in twain by the affair, and in our home it was not otherwise. Mademoiselle Henriette wept bitterly but at last she acquiesced to the inevitable, and Monsieur Paul went to America, heart-broken.

But after my master died I conceived an idea. I had long wished to visit America, for I had heard rumors from returning visitors that a chef at the Hotel Planksteak, New York, had invented a salad which was identical with the famous salad of my master. Enough! I must needs go, find the thief, and ram his salad down his throat.

"Mademoiselle Henriette," I said respectfully, the night before I sailed, "can I be of service to you in America?"

She looked up and I knew of what she was thinking.

"My dear friend," she answered, "I understand. But I cannot stoop to ask Monsieur Paul to return to me. It must be of his own accord."

"At least he should know that Monsieur le Marquis is dead," I answered.

"Then heaven bless and guard you in your dangerous venture, Jean Birrabou," she said.

Enough! Twelve days later behold me, Jean Birrabou, seated at a table in the luxurious Hotel Planksteak. Six salads did I order and consume that day. And then, just as I decide that the rumor is false, the waiter brings me the Salad Imaginaire.

I gasped, for there before me is the identical salad of my master the Marquis, invented by him and known only among the high aristocracy of France. I fixed him with my eye.

"Who has invented this salad?" I demanded haughtily.

"It is I, Monsieur," answered the waiter, eyeing me bravely.

I rose from my seat and took the salad bowl, inverted it, and tapped it on his head, so that the oil ran down over his shirt front.

"Dog of a thief!" I hissed, "you stole that salad." The waiter separated us. I drew my card from my pocket and presented it to the scoundrel.

"Your salad," I said, "is my master's salad."

That evening his seconds called at my boarding house.

True to my word, behold me in a cellar at five o'clock the following morning, my will made, my last message to Mademoiselle in an envelope awaiting postage, my soul ready to face the future. I saw my enemy tremble. They handed us our pistols.

My hand trembled; the memory of my master overcame me. I felt my eyes filling with tears. I could not longer see the scoundrel whom I was so soon to kill.

"Fire!"

Our weapons went off together. I saw my foe standing unmoved, a smile of malice playing upon his lips. I felt a violent blow upon my breastbone. I sank down in the straw.

"I forgive you, monsieur!" I said, as he came toward me. "Wait till I die; then heap the straw over me."

Gently he unbuttoned my coat and felt for the gaping wound. I closed my eyes in agony. Lo! A moment later and he was holding up a small, crushed pellet.

"Your wound is but superficial, monsieur," he announced. "See, I have found the bullet."

The pellet was wrapped in silver foil. Slowly he peeled it off, disclosing to my anguished eyes—a Brussels sprout! It had fallen harmlessly upon my waistcoat.

I rose to my feet, stupefied. My enemy came forward and held out his hand to me.

"My dear friend Birrabou," he said. "Do you not know me?"

I looked at him, and suddenly I gasped from amazement. I had seen his photograph upon mademoiselle's desk.

"Monsieur Paul!" I exclaimed, and he bowed suavely.

Enough! Think how nearly I came to killing him whom I had set out to find! But we have returned to France now, and whenever Monsieur and Madame Henriette have guests, it is I, Jean Birrabou, who makes the salad of Monsieur le Marquis.

Too Closely United.

A British officer, who was attached to one of the commissions sent by his country to the United States during the World war, was the proud possessor of a huge mustache. One evening, the story runs, there was a dance held at one of the suburban hotels near Washington, and the lady with whom this gallant officer was dancing felt that her hair was falling over her ear. During the course of the waltz she managed to fix it up with a hairpin. At the end of the dance, however, the officer was alarmed to find his mustache pinned up with the lady's hairpin.

But Only Then.

DESPAIR LURKS IN WEAK BLOOD

Gude's Pepto-Mangan the Blood-Builder, Arouses Dull Faculties

Many a man and many a woman feels out of sorts from thin, weak blood. The least little thing goes wrong throws them into a wild form of despondency. Instead of bracing up and meeting ordinary difficulties, they are downed. Nerves are on edge. Appetite lags. Sleep is restless. They are weak and tired and dull. Poor blood works its havoc till the will loses its power. Few people who fall into habits of worry and despondency realize that most of their troubles are due to lack of endurance—to blood that has become weakened by overwork or straining.

Healthy men and women with rich, red blood see things brightly. They tackle life with zest and go along smilingly, full of eagerness and endurance.

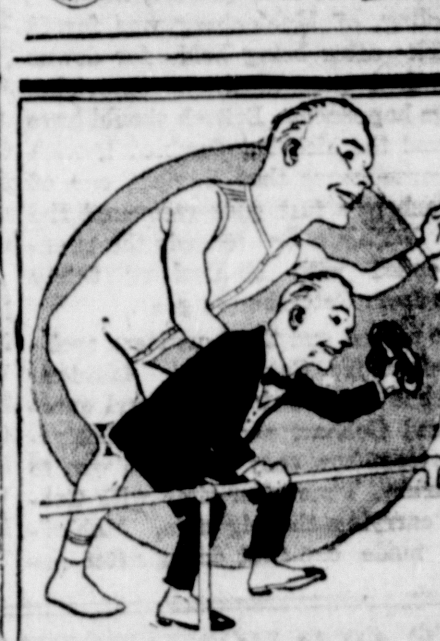

Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken steadily restored the blood to its natural richness. It actually makes red corpuscles, the tiny particles in blood which make it red. Druggists have Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form.

a number of the occupants of which hiked and begged rides to get here.

Sixty couples attended the interfraternity dance in Glatfelter Hall Saturday evening, at which members of the Muhlenberg team were guests.

In the first seven minutes of the game Gettysburg had won a football game in wild-fire style. From the kick-off Gettysburg played better than she knew how. The plays went off with a snap and precision that would have done justice to a Walter Camp team. The play generally used in the opening quarter was a reverse line buck in which the ball is snapped to the quarter who makes a fake run around either end but gives the ball to one of the halves to carry around the opposite end from which he is going. This Gettysburg used again and again and with so much snap that the Muhlenberg players just stood around and watched where the ball was going. By a series of these plays and a number of line plunges, Gettysburg scored her first touchdown when Brenneman carried the ball around left end for a touchdown. Emanuel failed to kick the goal and the score stood 6-0.

In the few succeeding minutes of play, the Freshman, Britsch, carried the ball for a series of gains which netted Gettysburg three first downs. During this scrimmage Slaughter was knocked out but recovered sufficiently to continue in the fray. Still within the first five minutes of play, Brenneman again was given the ball on a fake play and he carried it across for the second touchdown for Gettysburg. Emanuel kicked the goal and the score stood 13-0 with Muhlenberg wondering what struck them. They had not recovered from the series of fake plays which had been staged against them. They were spellbound. Muhlenberg then had a chance at the ball after Gettysburg kicked off, but were unable to buck the line or make any appreciable gains. In these closing minutes of the first quarter, however, Demoling, of Muhlenberg was forced to kick after being held for downs and then one of those surprising things happened. Britsch should have received the kick but fumbled it with the consequence that Daniels, one of Muhlenberg's fast ends recovered the ball. Within a few seconds the quarter ended with Muhlenberg thirty yards from Gettysburg's goal.

The second and third quarters spelled defeat for Gettysburg. Muhlenberg had the ball in the second quarter and Gebhart showed the Gettysburg team how easy their line was to penetrate. Time after time with Gebhart carrying the pig skin, Muhlenberg made one first down after another.

other. Then Crum ran around left end for Muhlenberg's first touchdown. Fulcher kicked the goal and the score tallied 13-7. McDowell was then substituted for Slaughter who had not fully recovered from his first injury. Then Muhlenberg started a string of forward passes that Gettysburg seemed unable to stop. Time after time Crum passed to Holstrum and Daniels, Muhlenberg's fast ends and just as often as they tried just so often were they successful. Then with the ball in Muhlenberg's hands another incident occurred which marked the beginning of the end for Gettysburg.

Muhlenberg was carrying the ball at the time but was forced to kick. Britsch again was under the ball this time but the elusive sphere went through his arms and rolled behind the goal posts where Daniels who had followed the kick up the field, fell on the ball for Muhlenberg's second touchdown and victory. Muhlenberg kicked the goal. Muhlenberg's score topped Gettysburg's by one point.

The second half opened with Muhlenberg rushing the ball by a number of forward passes and line rushes that completely broke up the Gettysburg morale. Of course the work of Crum, Muhlenberg's quarter and Holstrum her end, can not be overlooked nor underestimated. It was brilliant work and showed remarkable training and judgment. This passing continued until Muhlenberg had the ball within twenty yards of Gettysburg's goal. Then Fulcher, Muhlenberg's halfback dropped back for a drop kick in which he was successful which added three points to Muhlenberg's score.

Throughout the remainder of the third quarter Gettysburg was unable to make first downs and Keiser was forced to punt. Keiser punted poorly during the entire contest and just when his toe could have aided Gettysburg, he was unable to kick over thirty yards, and that in a cross-field fashion. Davis who had been substituted for Brenneman made a nice run for first down but Gettysburg could not follow up her advantage.

Then in the fourth quarter just as the red orb of the sun was sinking behind Seminary Ridge, Gettysburg staged a comeback that was beautiful to witness but pathetic to watch in its futility since so little time remained to score. Gettysburg seemed to get renewed life and by a series of rushes and passes which featured Smith, Keiser, Mordan and Slaughter, Gettysburg was pushing her way slowly toward Muhlenberg's goal. But then she lost the ball when about fifteen yards from Muhlenberg's goal and the ball was in the possession of the latter when the game ended.

It was both a good and bad exhibition of football. Fumbles caused Gettysburg defeat, but more than that she was outplayed in every quarter except the first.

The line up of the game follows:
Muhlenberg. Position. Gettysburg.
Holstrum. L. E. Keiser (Capt.)
Witt. L. T. Wolf
Brewer. L. G. Gingerich

LYKEN'S HIGH NO MATCH FOR LOCALS

Oyler's Run of Eighty Yards From Kick-Off Outstanding Feature.

An eighty yard run from the kick off by Oyler through the entire Lykens team was the outstanding feature of the Gettysburg High school game Saturday afternoon, on the Playground diamond, when they defeated the fast-going Lykens' High by the score of 24-0.

In the opening quarter Gettysburg was held for downs and was unable to make gains through Lykens' line. And to add to their inability to secure first downs Gettysburg was penalized fifteen yards for tripping. The work of Weikert in pulling down a twenty yard pass from Raymond was brilliant and netted a first down for Gettysburg after they had been hurled back by penalties.

The second quarter, Raymond, Weikert and Miller were the consistent ground gainers for Gettysburg and by a series of plunges and off tackle plays succeeded in scoring their second touchdown. Raymond failed to kick the goal. After kicking off again Lykens lost the ball on their forty yard line on a fumble. Then by a forward pass to Buchler, who made a twenty yard run and Miller, who ran around right end for twelve yards, Gettysburg High scored their third touchdown when Weikert scored in a criss-cross around left end. The first half ended shortly afterward.

The third quarter was marked by hard playing on both sides. Gettysburg passed and lost on penalties. Lykens was forced to punt and the punt went over Raymond's head. Lykens then held Gettysburg for downs after Gettysburg had been penalized fifteen yards for holding. Miller's run of seventeen yards was the outstanding feature at this point of the contest, but still Gettysburg players were unable to secure their first down and Oyler was forced to punt. The period ended with the score in Gettysburg's favor, 18-0.

The fourth quarter was not advanced far when Miller, of Gettysburg, carried the ball for Gettysburg's fourth down. Raymond failed to kick the goal. In this quarter Lykens put a youngster into the quarterback position who although small gave Gettysburg considerable trouble throughout the remainder of the contest. Weikert, C. Bream and Raymond were the heavy ground gainers for Gettysburg, while Kopenhagen played the stellar role for Lykens.

The lineup:

Gettysburg	Position	Lykens
Buehler	L. E.	Bitterman
J. Miller	L. T.	Chaundy
Landis	L. G.	Blackway
C. Bream	C.	Boeckler
Scharf	R. G.	Miller

CABRERA AWAITS DEATH

Former Guatemala President Dejected and Incoherent in Cell.

Guatemala City, Oct. 24—Manuel Estrada Cabrera, former president of the republic, who was sentenced to death last month for the murder of Jose Coronado Aguilar, who was among those killed during a bombardment of the city by the Cabrera forces in April, 1920, lies in the jail here, awaiting the execution of his sentence.

A deputation from the Workers' League, accompanied by the Minister of War, yesterday visited Cabrera in his cell. They found the prisoner in a state of dejection. His replies to questions asked him were incoherent.

MISSING BANKER SUICIDE

Miami, Fla., Oct. 24—The "Man of Mystery" who committed suicide last Thursday night in a local hotel was identified last night as Warren C. Spurgin, missing president of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company of Chicago, by W. F. Bennett, of Miami, former Chicago broker and intimate friend of Spurgin.

A bullet wound in the forehead and a revolver, containing one spent cartridge, supported the theory of suicide. Spurgin apparently had taken considerable precaution to obliterate every mark on his clothing which might have led to identification. Even parts of the lining in his shoes had been cut out and could not be found.

AGNES AYRES AND THOMAS MEIGHAN IN "CAPPY RICKS"

TOM MOORE AND HAZEL DALY IN "BEATING THE GAME"

RICHARD HEADRICK AND ROVER IN "THE CHILD THOU GAVEST ME"

HERBERT RAWLINSON

"Beating the Game"—"Cappy Ricks"—"Miracle of Manhattan"—"To a Finish"—"Mother O' Dreams"—Herbert Rawlinson.

TOM MOORE is not only Tom of the golden smile in "Beating the Game," but he is also Tom of the strong arm and Tom of the fraternity of crooks. In this powerful story by the famous American playwright, Charles Kenyon, the dramatic theme is supplied by a ruse perpetrated on a clumsy crook by a United States senator, whose hobby is criminology. Mistaken by the crook (Tom Moore) for a master thief, the former obeys the latter's instruction to "go it straight" for a short time. Believing that this is part of a plan to make a great haul, the thief complies with the request, only to discover that his honesty has won the heart of a wonderful girl and the respect of the community. How the regenerated crook fights to continue his life, even at the risk of disclosing his past, are but a few of the climatic episodes that make "Beating the Game" an interesting picture.

"Cappy Ricks"
Matt Peasley (Thomas Meighan), descendant of New England seamen, lands in San Francisco after a voyage, and, eventually ships as a mate on one of the freighters of the Blue Star Line. The brain and soul of the company is Cappy Ricks, former sea dog and present financier. Cappy's love for his daughter, Florrie, a young lady who has a penchant for getting what she wants when she wants it.
Florrie and a friend are selling tags in San Francisco for the purpose of getting money for Sailor's Snug Harbor, a seamen's retreat. She accosts Peasley and his pal, one Murphy, who buy tags and are about to leave when a sneak thief seizes Florrie's purse and runs. She is overtaken by Peasley who returns the purse after besting the crook.

Peasley and Murphy sail for the South Seas on one of Cappy's ships. The captain is slain by savages. Matt takes command, as first mate, and brings his craft back to Frisco. Florrie decides she loves Matt and will marry him. Cappy had hoped his daughter would marry Skinner, an official of the navigation company, and to throw the two into closer proximity takes them on a cruise up the Pacific Coast.
Word that their boat is foundering on the rocks, its rudder gone, comes by wireless, and Matt, Murphy and "All Hands and Feet" set out to rescue them in a harbor tug. The rescue is effected, and brings Cappy to a better understanding of Matt Peasley's ability. He sighs with satisfaction when Matt and Florrie announce their engagement.
How long can a young woman exist in New York on $12.00? This is one of several interesting questions that arise in Elaine Hammerstein's latest picture "The Miracle of Manhattan."
Miss Hammerstein takes the part of Evelyn Whitney, a young society debutante who thinks it would be an easy matter for a girl to "get by." That is she thinks so until she tries it. Then her opinions suffer a radical change. But a change of opinion is not the only inconvenience she experiences. She is suddenly caught in a mesh of circumstances that cause her much mental and physical anguish.
After several harrowing experiences which include an attempt upon her life by a jealous woman, she settles down to a new routine of life, no longer the gilded butterfly of society but a woman who has drunk deeply from the cup of life.

"To a Finish"
"To a Finish" is a story of the western plains, in which a young ranchman (Buck Jones), in defense of his father and himself, undertakes to run down a villain who seeks, by surreptitiously placing rebranded cattle among their herds, to stamp upon these men the infamy of cattle rustling. The young man succeeds, of course; but before he succeeds he undergoes some thrilling experiences and hair-breadth escapes from death. And in the prosecution of his task he is assisted more than once by a very charming girl—played by Helen Ferguson—who at the close finds a permanent haven in the arms of the intrepid ranchman.
"Mother O' Dreams"
In this picture Santschi is a rancher living alone and brooding over memories of his dead mother. He is an amateur artist, and while at work on his mother's portrait gains the sympathy of a young girl—Ruth Stonehouse—and her grandmother who own and occupy a neighboring valuable ranch.
The action of the picture swiftly develops a plot by a pair of ruffians to intimidate the heroine into handing away her property. The hero, witnessing an instance of the brutal methods of the conspirators in coercing the grandmother, for whom he has a feeling akin to those evoked by his memories, becomes her active champion. The abduction of the young heroine starts the hero on the war-path in dead earnest. In his successful effort to rescue the girl and restore the papers wrung from the grandmother, the hero kills the principal villain, whose partner convinces a party of vigilantes that the victim had not fired a shot. The heroine aids in the hero's escape from unjust punishment, and as he rides away both realize the fact of their mutual love and that he some day, when she is "grown up," will return.

Richard And Rover
During the filming of "The Child Thou Gavest Me," Rover, a beautiful collie was used as a pet companion for little Richard Headrick, who plays one of the principal parts. The dog's high order of canine intelligence proved a great handicap in one scene. According to the scenario, the boy was to approach the edge of the pond accompanied by the dog, trip and fall in. The little actor is a champion swimmer, but the dog could not grasp that fact, so, thinking that he was protecting "Itchie," he kept wading in between him and the pond to prevent him falling. Finally, when repeated rehearsals failed to teach Rover that he was to keep out of the way, the boy pushed him aside and jumped in. To prove that he was truly concerned about "Itchie's" safety, the dog ran up and down the lagoon bank, whimpering and barking frantically, until his playmate swam back to shore.

COLLEGE HEAD AT 36

New President Of Swarthmore Formally Installed.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—Out under the trees in the natural amphitheatre of Swarthmore College Saturday morning, surrounded by the heads and representatives of the leading educational institutions in America, Dr. Frank Aydelotte, a boyish looking man of only 36 years, was inaugurated as president of the famous Quaker college with simple but impressive ceremonies.

In his inaugural address, President Aydelotte made a plea for higher and still higher educational standards in America so as to develop real intellectual leaders.

"We are educating more students up to a fair average than any country in the world, but we are wastefully allowing the capacity of the average to prevent us from bringing the best up to the standards they could reach. Our most important task at present is to check this waste," he earnestly declared.

Noted Men Are Present

The inaugural exercises were held amid the beautiful natural surroundings of the outdoor college amphitheatre, which is admirably formed by nature for the purpose, as it were, in a wooded ravine close to the college buildings. An assembly of nearly 2,000 persons, including the student body, the alumni members and guests occupied the tiers of seats erected beneath the canopy of trees on the receding hillsides.

Humorist Applies For American Legion Membership.

Riverside, Ill., Oct. 24.—"While I never fought vs. Germany as a whole, I often had words with August Klink, the garbage man," writes Ring W. Lardner, the humorist, in applying for membership in the American Legion post of his native town.

The letter is addressed to Ashley Guthrie, commander of the Riverside post. It is dated at Great Neck, N. Y. It follows, in part:

"Friend Ash:—I write to apply for the position of bugler in your Post and you will go a long ways before you find my equal in tooting the horn. As for my qualifications for this high office, ask Tommy Gross if I can't make the old bugle talk. I have mastered all the calls including tans and revelry which I never wasted no breath on in Riverside because the boys wouldn't go to bed so they didn't have to get up. In applying for the position I know in advance what the knockers will say namely that I shouldn't ought to be allowed in the Riverside Post on account of not living in Riverside and secondly because I didn't take no part in the war. Well, Ash, I expect to be in the next war as they are going to draft men from 80 years old down instead of vice versa."

FREIGHT TRAINS MOVING

Goucher Girls Think Couple May Marry Safely on That Amount.

Baltimore, Oct. 24.—Figures taken from 103 answers to a class referendum show that the average senior at Goucher College is of the opinion that a young couple can safely marry, and live in the city, on an income of $48 per week. This announcement was made Saturday by President W. W. Guth at a meeting in Catherine Cooper Hall, called to a national conference to consider plans for Goucher's $6,000,000 fund. The vote was taken, Dr. Guth said, to test the truth of the recent charge of eugenists that college girls are unwilling to marry unless they are given many comforts and luxuries.

"The question put to the girls," said Dr. Guth, "was this—on how small a salary do you think a young couple could safely marry these days—to live in the city? We wanted to find out just what our girls thought about this, in order to test the truth or falseness of the recent assertions by eugenists in New York that the American college girl is a slacker on marriage. The results—taken from 103 answers to a referendum among the seniors alone, amply refute those statements, and show that Goucher's aim of usefulness in the home is a very real thing."

"The average for the annual incomes estimated by the girls is $2531.16. This is $210 a month, or $48 a week. Some interesting results were as follows:

"Only six girls out of the 103 gave an estimate of $4000 or over; their estimates being $4000, $4500, $4900, $5000, $6000 and $8000. The girl who estimated $8000 said, 'I can't speak for any average couple, but personally, I feel that $8000 a year is a low minimum.' The girl who fixed an average of $6000 said, 'It could be done on $4000 uncomfortably, but $8000 would enable comfortable living and allow small savings.'

"The other extreme is the answer of a girl with real courage, who said she thought a young couple could get along satisfactorily, and present a neat appearance, on $1000 if they had a child, and on $850 without a child."

"Twenty-four girls made an estimate of $2000; 21 estimated $2500; 16 estimated $2400, and four were willing to take a chance on $1500 or less."

"It is evident that most of the girls gave the matter careful thought. A dozen or more had their estimates made out in odd amounts. One girl pointed out that city taxes are a serious consideration. Another said that it would take $3000 in Washington or New York, but only $2600 in the Middle West, and $2500 if a girl should be the wife of an army or navy officer. Practically every girl who commented on her estimate pointed out that the success of the undertaking would depend on sensible economies and good team-work."

Washington.—The annual report of the activities of the Near East Relief organization, filed with Congress by Charles V. miral Mark L. Bristol, United States High Commissioner to Turkey, for example, declares:

"I have been closely associated with the work of the Near East Relief committee for about 22 months. On the whole the work of this relief committee has been such that Americans should be proud of this great humane effort. The Near East Relief here in Constantinople is run more like a business organization than any relief organization with which I have ever come into contact."

Charles V. Vickrey's summary of the activities of the Near East Relief shows the disbursement of over $60,000,000.00 in cash and supplies, contributed by the American people to the salvaging of the Christian populations of the Near East. 711 American and Canadian men and women relief workers have been engaged in this huge task on little more than a volunteer basis. 82 hospitals, with 6,522 beds, and 123 clinics; 11 rescue homes, where young girls rescued from lives of shame in Turkish harems are taught to forget their sufferings, and to begin life anew, self-supporting and independent, are maintained.

110,000 Little Children
The most remarkable feature of the work of the Near East Relief is, however, the salvation of tens of thousands of children who have lost parents and relatives during the past six years. For these little ones American generosity has provided, through the Near East Relief, 299 homes—one in Alexandropol, Armenia, housing 18,000 children—where, last year, 54,600 children were housed, clothed, fed and taught, while an additional 56,039, outside the Near East Relief orphanages, were saved from starvation and death by food and clothing sent them from the United States.

Mr. Vickrey's report states that approximately 2,790,490 Armenians are still living in the Near East, out of a pre-war population of over 4,000,000 and estimates that had it not been for the aid given by the American people through the Near East Relief, fully half of those now living would have perished. Food was furnished to 561,970 homeless refugees during a large part of 1920, while 300,000 garments, comprising 1,500,000 pounds of clothing sent out from the United States were distributed to barefoot and rag-clad wanderers, all the way from the Mediterranean to the Caucasus mountains.

Work Must Continue

Commenting on these figures Mr. Vickrey stated that "this distinctive humanitarian relief work, as an expression of brotherhood, should help to mark the beginning of a new era of peace and inter-racial good will in the Near East."

"The tremendous task undertaken by the American people in saving the children of the Near East is one which cannot be left unfinished. We have an investment of over $60,000,000 in human life, that America has saved. If we falter or pause now, that investment is imperiled, or may even be lost altogether. Most of the children we have saved from death are still too little to take care of themselves, and conditions throughout the Near East are still too uncertain to let them shift for themselves. It is morally sure that for at least five years, and until these little ones that we have snatched from a terrible fate are able to support themselves and enjoy an even chance of life as useful citizens, the American people who have rescued them must see them through."

"It is the purpose of the Near East Relief to do just this, and we appeal to the generosity of the American people to see this noble work is carried out in the spirit of mutual helpfulness and Christian charity which is so essentially characteristic of the American ideal."

Contributions to the work of the Near East Relief may be sent to Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer, 1 Madison Ave., New York City.

Why I Am a Candidate for Associate Judge

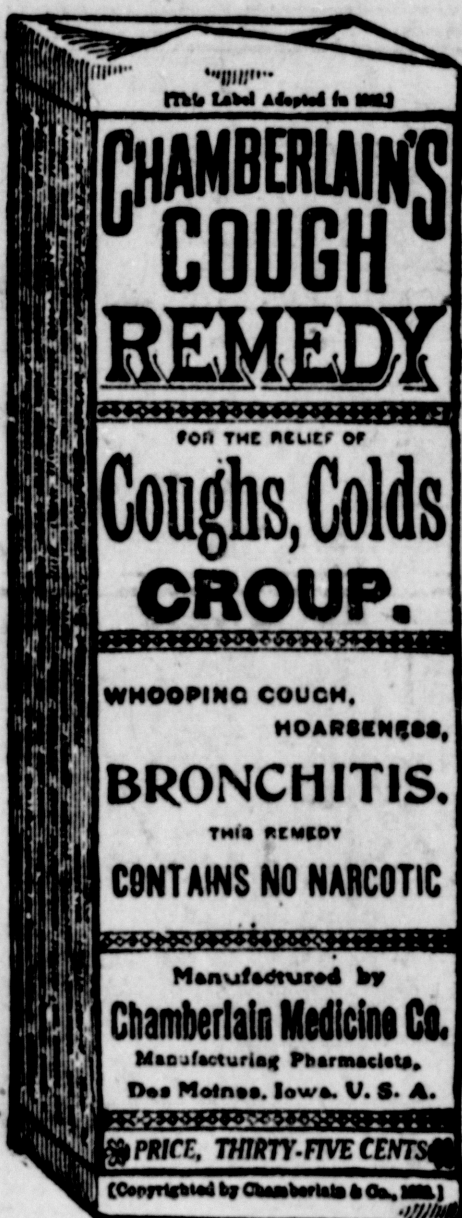

I wish to explain to the voters of Adams County my reasons for coming before the people as a Candidate for Associate Judge even though I failed to get my name placed upon the Republican Ticket at the Primary election September 20th.

If the first place the office of Associate Judge is PARTISAN and I claim it is not square and fair to the voters of Adams county for a registered Democrat to file petitions in order to have his name appear on both party tickets or for a registered Republican to do the same thing.

Surely all right thinking people want to know where a man stands when they go to vote for him. They at least want to know if he is on one side or the other and not on the fence.

I am a registered Republican.
